Finding Families for Colorado's Waiting Kids

Frequently Asked Questions about Foster Care and Adoption¹

1. What is foster care?

Foster care means the placement of a child into the legal custody or legal authority of a county department of human/social services for physical placement of a child in a certified or licensed facility.

A family foster care home provides the child with an emergency or temporary home and a supportive and stable family environment while the birth family addresses the concerns or situation that prevents them from parenting their child. Typically, foster parents care for the child until reunification with the birth family, there is an adoption or guardianship with kin, or the child is legally adopted by another family. Sometimes foster parents become the permanent home for the child through adoption.

2. I don't make a lot of money. What if my foster child gets sick?

Foster parents receive a monthly reimbursement. Medical and dental coverage is provided for children in foster care through Medicaid, or private insurance sources.

3. What does the child's caseworker do?

The caseworker will...

- Provide you with the pertinent information that you need to meet the child's needs.
- Bring the child to your home and help him or her move in and get settled.
- Visit you and the child regularly.
- Encourage you to work with the birth family in varying capacities.
- Depending on the situation, arrange for and in some cases, supervise visits between the child and the birth parents and/or other relatives.
- Help you coordinate educational services, health, dental, mental health services, or counseling that the child needs.

4. What does a foster care resource caseworker do?

- Provides monthly supervision and support in your home.
- Answers questions that you have about the foster care program.
- Provides information about available training, support, and resources.

5. I'm 60 years old and retired. Can I be a foster parent?

A person's age is not a barrier. You need to be in general good health and have the energy and desire to provide a stable, loving environment to a child. Take a look at the qualifications to be a foster parent.

¹ All information taken from www.ChangeALifeForever.org, a web site of the Colorado Department of Human Services.

6. Do foster parents have to stay at home?

No. However, it's the responsibility of working foster parents to make appropriate child care arrangements for the children in their care.

7. What is adoption?

Adoption is the lifelong commitment to give a child a permanent home. Adoptive families provide a safe, loving environment for their children, and strive to meet their emotional, developmental, physical, social, educational, and cultural needs.

8. How much does it cost to adopt?

The costs associated with adoption are typically nominal. There are adoption subsidies available for adoptive parents of qualified children.

9. Can I adopt an infant?

Although some infants in foster care are waiting for adoption, many of the children in Colorado's public child welfare system are five years old and older.

10. I'm divorced and rent an apartment. Can I adopt?

Yes. You can adopt a child if you're single, married, divorced or widowed, and you don't have to own your home to adopt a child.

11. What does an adoption caseworker do?

Your caseworker will:

- Help you find a child who is a good fit for your family.
- Introduce you to your prospective adoptive child, either one-on-one or at an adoption party where prospective parents meet lots of waiting children.
- Arrange for visits between you and your prospective adoptive child, so you can get to know each other.
- Give you information about your child and his or her background.
- Visit you regularly before the adoption is finalized, and in some situations you may receive services after the adoption is finalized.

Foster Care Adoption Process²

QUALIFICATIONS

- *Are at least 21 years old
- *Are single, married, divorced, or widowed
- *Own or rent your home
- *Have adequate financial resources to maintain the home
- *Can provide for the child's physical, mental, and character development
- *Have parenting experience or none at all
- *Already have children in your home or not

THE PROCESS

People just like you provide foster care or adopt children every day. If you work with Colorado's public child welfare system, you'll find that becoming a foster or adoptive parent is a straightforward process. Once you successfully complete these steps, you may be certified to foster a child in order to adopt.

Step 1: Attend the foster care/adoption program orientation

Step 2: Complete and submit an application

Step 3: Attend parent training classes sponsored by the county departments, private child placement agency, or the State of CO

Step 4: Participate in a comprehensive foster family assessment

Step 1: Orientation

You will attend an orientation with the county department or private child placement agency where you choose to pursue the family certification. Along with other prospective foster and adoptive parents, you'll learn:

- What foster care and adoption means and your roles and responsibilities as a parent
- About the children who are placed in out-of-home care (their backgrounds and ages)
- What the certification process involves, such as the application form, the possible costs, the required training classes, and the family assessment
- How the child's caseworker and the foster care resource caseworkers will work with and support you and your family
- The necessary legal procedures
- About assistance and resources available to foster and adoptive parents
- About permanency, concurrent planning, and situations where children may be placed in a foster home for temporary care and later become legally free for adoption

Step 2: The Application

The Colorado Department of Human Services Application to Care For Children doesn't take long and is free to complete. The county department or private child placement agency where you choose to pursue the family certification will provide you with an application. Every applicant will have a Colorado and national background check for prior criminal and child abuse records.

² All information taken from www.ChangeALifeForever.org, a web site of the Colorado Department of Human Services.

Step 3: Training Classes

Foster and adoptive parents are required to attend training classes as part of the certification process. The classes are taught by experienced child welfare professionals. In addition to helping to prepare you and your family, the training covers topics including legal processes and issues, child growth and development, discipline, parenting and family dynamics, the importance of the team approach, working with the birth family, individual differences, as well as the challenges and the rewards of fostering and adopting.

Step 4: Family Assessment

A family assessment – also called a "home study" – is the process that helps us find appropriate families for the children who are in out-of-home care. Information is gathered through individual and joint interviews with a caseworker or another professional who will visit your home.

Here are some of the areas covered in the family assessment:

- Social history, background, personal characteristics, and values
- Problem solving and communication skills
- Parenting skills and family preparation
- Children and other people living in the home
- Family relationships and family support network
- Physical and social environment
- Demographics and birth family

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Foster care maintenance payments

To assist you with the costs of caring for a child while in out-of-home care, the county department of human/social services who has legal custody of the child provides certified foster families with foster care maintenance reimbursements, medical coverage for the child, a clothing allowance and assistance in locating resources for other special expenses.

Medical coverage

Children in foster care are covered under Medicaid. When a child comes to live with you, you'll receive a health insurance card that will cover doctor's visits, prescriptions, and other medical needs. Medicaid will also cover approved services such as counseling or physical therapy that the child needs.

Clothing allowance

Upon request, you will generally receive an initial clothing allowance to help purchase some of the items the child needs.

Special expenses

Sports, summer programs, after-school activities, school trips, graduation expenses - it all adds up! While the county department can't promise to meet every expense, your caseworker will work with you to find funds for those additional expenses that are important to the child's growth and development.

Tips on How to Choose an Adoption Agency

Adoption is a life long process for parents and children, and it is important to choose an agency that can help you assess your readiness to adopt and has the expertise to help you through the process. Child placement agencies must meet the licensing standards for Child Placement Agencies to provide adoption services in Colorado. A personal evaluation prior to selection of an agency will generally lead to positive results for families. The following points may be helpful in choosing an agency:

1. Learn about adoption and the issues involved

- Read books and articles on adoption
- Attend an adoptive parents' group
- Talk to other adoptive parents
- Attend agency orientation and information meetings

2. Determine the type of child you are interested in adopting

- Infant or older child
- Domestic or International
- Special needs (emotional problems, mental or physical handicaps) or minimal problems.

3. Contact the agencies and learn about their programs.

- Ask about any requirements/restrictions on adoptive parents such as length of marriage, age, etc.
- Ask for brochures on their program
- Attend orientation/information meetings

4. Evaluate the agency's program

- Ask about the steps in the agency's process such as orientation, application, study, parenting classes and the estimated time frames involved. Make a list of special questions you want answered.
- Make sure the agency is licensed; ask when was the last time the agency was visited by a representative from the licensing unit.
- Find out if complaints have been filed against the agency and if so, how they were resolved.
- Find out the staffs' education, background and experience in adoption.
- Ask about the services the agency gives to birth parents and evaluate the completeness and sensitivity of this work.
- Learn the costs involved for the screening, orientation meeting, home study, supervisory visits, court reports, educational groups, services to and expenses in connection with birth parents in designated adoptions, extra work in connection with interstate placement and other possible expenses. Obtain written detailed information on all costs involved including the agency's policy on refunds.
- Ask about any support groups the agency facilitates and any post finalization services they might offer.
- If possible, talk to other adoptive parents about their experience with the agency.

5. After you have chosen the agency

- Keep in regular contact with the agency but be realistic with the staff's time.
- If you have a complaint or are dissatisfied, talk honestly to the person with whom you are working and, if this is unsatisfactory, than talk to the director.

Agency and Ministry Overview

Adams County
	There are many children in our community who need safe, nurturing families who will host and support them as a foster family or provide a permanent home through adoption. In Adams County, 600 to 800 children are in the foster care system each month. At any given time, 40 - 50 children are available for adoption in Adams County. We ask that you answer our call for help. We are convinced that if the people in our community understand that they do not have to be perfect to be a perfect parent, they'll realize they do have what it takes to be foster or adoptive parents. From infants and toddlers to youth and teens, each child deserves someone to take care of them and a loving place to call home. Together, we can make a difference. On behalf of our children, thank you!

Bethany Christian Services is a national organization with offices in over 30 states. Here in Colorado, Bethany has local offices in Denver, Colorado Springs, and Grand Junction that serve the entire state. We offer adoption services for domestic, international, and embryo adoptions as well as birthparent counseling and post-adoption services. Another primary service of Bethany Colorado is our foster care program, licensing and supervising over 50 families to provide foster care homes to children from many Colorado counties. Within our foster care program, we also work with many families adopting waiting children through the foster care system of Colorado.

Bethany exists to manifest the love and compassion of Jesus Christ by protecting and enhancing the lives of children and families through quality social services. We would love the opportunity to work with you as you pursue God's plan for your family.

Broomfield Health and Human Services works with community leaders to create successful strategies in an effort to support children who are in foster care.

As the community continues to grow, support of children in foster care continues to be a need. Foster care provides protective services for children. Foster parents provide 24-hour temporary care for children who cannot remain in their own homes due to neglect, abuse, or other significant family problems. The goal of Broomfield Health and Human Services is to strengthen the family of origin to safely return children to their own homes.

Become a foster and/or adoptive parent for Colorado's children. You can change a life forever.

Catholic Charities Foster Care Program is designed to certify foster and foster adopt families who provide a stable, safe and nurturing environment for the child while a permanent plan is made for the child. Our program provides services to children ages 0-18 years old that are in the custody of a County Department of Human Services.

Goal: Assist and support the County Department of Human Services to facilitate concurrent planning for children in foster care in order to achieve permanence through reunification or alternate placement including adoption.

Goal: To recruit and retain appropriate resource families for foster children.

Goal: To provide ongoing support and education to foster parents while certified with our agency.

In order to achieve these goals, the Foster Care Program provides the following services:

To Children in Foster Care: case management, treatment planning, social, emotional and developmental support, and therapeutic support.

To Foster Parents: education and training, family assessment, certification, case management, multi-system support and therapeutic support.

Colorado Family Services (CFS) is an Evangelical, Christian-oriented Child Placement Agency. We are licensed by the Colorado Department of Human Services to license foster homes. We have an emphasis on coordinating foster-adoptions and writing S.A.F.E. Home Studies. We provide foster care and adoptive care in most parts of Colorado.

For a foster adoption in conjunction with a county department of social services the only fee we charge is to cover background checks and the textbook for CPR & First Aid. Thus a typical foster adoption is usually $150 or less. Our services include core training (16 hours of face-to-face training is required). We also have 4-5 one hour trainings per year and CPR & First Aid on a quarterly basis. We also license people to be foster parents.

DENVER
THE MILE HIGH CITY

Our Mission:

To protect Denver's children and youth through services, advocacy, and respect for diversity, while promoting family stability and strengthening family connections to community resources.

All Child Welfare services are consolidated within the Child Welfare Division of the Denver Department of Human Services. This Division has been accredited by the Child Welfare League of America since 1946.

Our goal is to work cooperatively with families and to provide services to keep families together. Working in collaboration with community agencies, the Denver Police Department and Denver Juvenile Court, all allegations of child maltreatment are addressed through services designed specifically to identify and to protect victims from further abuse. These services often include substance abuse and mental health treatment for parents and children, day treatment, home-based services, and sexual abuse treatment. The Department provides temporary placement of a child out of the child's home when needed, and works toward a permanent plan for that child.

The Child Welfare Division is comprised of five major sub-divisions: Intake, Child Protection, Youth Services, Operations, and Resources, coordinating services such as foster care, kinship care, adoption, etc.

The El Paso County Department of Human Services assists people in our community who are seeking resources to meet some of life's many demands. We work to ensure our county's residents are able to live and grow in an environment free of extreme poverty, abuse or neglect. We accomplish this by using local, State and Federal programs that are available to El Paso County residents. We strive to view the family unit as a whole and provide the best assistance through combining all the support and services we have available in an integrated and efficient manner.

With regard to waiting children and adoption, the Department serves the Colorado Springs and surrounding El Paso County area. Although we do not have any of our own foster and adoptive homes, we contract with nine child placement agencies in the area to provide these homes.

Larimer County family foster homes provide temporary care for children from infancy through age 18 who have been temporarily removed from their families due to physical, sexual or emotional abuse, parent neglect, or the inability of the parent to care for the child.

These foster parents offer companionate day to day support and care until the child can either reunite with his or her birth family, be placed with extended family, find an adoptive family, or transition to independent living.

The Foster Care Program provides recruitment, training, certification and retention services for family foster care providers and adoptive families.

Adoptive families have the love, attitude, stamina and support to develop skills to effectively deal with the many behaviors and feelings displayed by children and youth. Services and support are provided to adoptive families to help the child/children transition to their forever family.

Lutheran Family Services

Lutheran Family Services of Colorado is a non-profit organization serving children, adults, and families since 1948. The agency began as an adoption agency 60 years ago.

Since 1974, LFS has provided foster care services for abused and neglected children as a Child Placement Agency contracted by the Colorado Department of Human Services.

The foster care/foster adoption services are designed to provide healing, help and hope to children and their families. In the event the child is unable to return home and parental rights are terminated, the foster family can be considered as an adoptive placement for the child.

LFS is a Pikes Peak United Way Member Agency, making a difference in the community.

At Focus on the Family we believe that every child deserves to know the love of a forever family. Therefore, our goal is to raise awareness of and recruit families for the children and youth waiting in foster care.

Our awareness and recruiting efforts are complemented by desperately needed post-placement resources for adoptive families that are both biblically based and relevant to their unique struggles. These resources also provide practical ways for churches and individuals to support the adoptive families in their communities.

And while not every family is called to adopt, we believe everyone can play a role through prayer support, mentoring, giving, or mobilizing the church.

Next Steps:

- Visit the agency booths
- Determine which agency you prefer to work with
- Obtain any relevant paperwork
- Find out their orientation and training schedule

If you are planning to further explore adoption, please fill out the green interest form and place it in the marked boxes throughout the church or hand them to one of our event volunteers.

It is important to do this even if you are not sure which agency you prefer to work with yet.

For more information on any of the orientations, trainings, or other events listed on the pages that follow, please contact the agency hosting the particular event. Thank you again for your willingness to help Colorado's waiting kids!

Focus on the Family Support Resources

Handbook on Thriving as an Adoptive Family

Adoption is a high calling from God, and the Christian home is primary soil for planting seeds of faith. But how will post-adoption challenges affect this growth? Many families do not feel adequately prepared for unexpected challenges like a child who has been adopted fighting with his new siblings, not wanting to be touched, or showing signs of reactive attachment disorder (RAD). Packed with practical advice, ideas and resources, this distinctively Christian book is an important parenting resource that provides comprehensive, topical, Bible-based solutions for the inevitable challenges after adoption.

Wrapping Around Adoptive Families

There are many different ways to minister to God's orphan children and to the adoptive families that have welcomed these children home. This booklet makes it clear that struggling adoptive families need their church families to support them during times of trials. While the suggestions in this booklet may not apply to all situations, they represent a general "cry of the heart" of adoptive families who welcomed home an emotionally wounded or struggling child. The goal is to provide practical guidance for churches seeking effective ways to support adoptive families.

Counseling for Families in Need

Families seeking someone to talk with can call 1-800-A-Family (232-6459) and ask to speak with one of our licensed counselors.

If you know a Colorado family that wasn't able to attend the event today but would like to know more, encourage them to visit www.WaitNoMoreOnline.org to hear all the speakers, learn about adoption from foster care and start the process of adoption by filling out a simple online form.
